Imari Obadele

Republic of New Afrika terrorist Imari Obadele was convicted in the death of a Jackson police officer nearly 25 years ago. Next week he will speak inside city hall. Imari Obadele was invited by black Councilman Kenneth Stokes to speak at a black history program Tuesday, and his appearance is causing quite a stir. The scene was chaotic in August of 1971 hours after Jackson police officer William Louis Skinner was gunned down during a house raid. Police and FBI agents were serving an arrest warrant. Inside were members of the Republic of New Afrika , a separatist militant group. Twenty-six-year JPD vet Jimmy King was nearby. "It was quiet all of a sudden; sounded like a small war going on," said King. "You just didn't lose an officer like that. It was very traumatic," Black stated. In 1972, RNA president Imari Obadele along with several others was found guilty in the killing of Skinner. He served less than six years. On February 1st Obadele will stand inside Jackson City Hall in front of an audience to talk about the RNA eleven.
